FOR INDEPENDENT LIVING DIRECTORS AND RESIDENT SERVICES

Keep your residents in independent living longer.

Residents rarely move out over one big event. It is missed pills, skipped meals and long, lonely evenings adding up. With Virtual Caregiving, a real Caring Companions caregiver checks in by video on the resident's own TV every weekday, and catches those things early.

VIRTUAL CAREGIVING

From $75 a week

A 15-minute check-in, every weekday, plus HomeTogether TV in the apartment ($99 a month). Families sign up with us directly.

HOW IT HELPS RESIDENTS STAY WHERE THEY ARE

Changes get noticed early

The same caregiver sees the resident most weekdays. A missed dose, a skipped meal or a shaky walk across the room gets noticed, and the family gets a call.

More time in independent living

For the resident who is managing, mostly. Daily check-ins and on-screen reminders support them before a move to assisted living becomes the only answer.

Peace of mind for families far away

Notes go to the family after visits. If something looked wrong, they get a call, not a note.

Nothing for your staff to run

No cost to your community. Families sign up with us, our caregivers do the visits, and we never ask you for resident details.

HOW IT WORKS WITH YOUR COMMUNITY

1
You notice
A resident who seems to be slipping a little. Your team sees it first.

2
You tell the family
Pass along our resident half-sheet or our number. That's all we ask.

3
The family calls us
We explain how it works, with no pressure. The family decides.

4
We set it up
Near Springfield we install HomeTogether TV. Elsewhere in Missouri we mail it, and it plugs into the TV.

Signs a resident could use it

- Missing meals in the dining room, or eating less
- Pharmacy bags left at the door, or mixed-up pills
- Skipping activities they used to love
- Seeming more confused, tired or unsteady
- Home from the hospital or rehab, or after a fall
- Family calling the front desk to check on them

Ways we can help your community

- Near Springfield: a try-it kiosk in your lobby. We bring a TV with HomeTogether set up and staff it ourselves. Residents and families can try a video call and sign up right there
- A family night or coffee talk about Virtual Caregiving
- Resident half-sheets for your front desk or move-in packet, mailed anywhere in Missouri
- If a family asks you to, you can pass us their number and we'll call them

Let's talk about your residents

WHY MEDICATION TIMING MATTERS

A missed pill is rarely just a missed pill.

For an older adult living on their own, a forgotten dose, or a dose taken twice because they couldn't remember, is often where a fall, a hospital stay or a move out of independent living begins. About half of medicines for long-term conditions are not taken as prescribed.*

WHAT A MISSED OR DOUBLED DOSE CAN TURN INTO

Blood pressure

Missed: pressure can climb, raising the risk of stroke and heart attack.

Taken twice: dizziness or fainting on standing up, a common cause of falls.

Diabetes

Missed: high blood sugar, thirst and confusion, and over time damage to kidneys, eyes and nerves.

Taken twice: low blood sugar: shaky, confused, and at risk of falling or passing out.

Blood thinners

Missed: a higher chance of a blood clot or stroke.

Taken twice: bleeding and heavy bruising, especially dangerous after a fall.

Heart failure and water pills

Missed: fluid builds up, legs swell and breathing gets hard, often ending in the ER.

Taken twice: dehydration, weakness and dizziness.

Parkinson's

Missed: even a dose an hour or two late can bring stiffness, slowness, trouble walking and swallowing, and falls.

Seizure medicines

Missed: seizures can return, sometimes after years without one.

Antidepressants and mood medicines

Missed: stopping suddenly can bring dizziness, anxiety, poor sleep and low mood.

Pain and sleep medicines

Missed: pain returns and sleep suffers.

Taken twice: drowsiness and confusion, and a much higher chance of a fall.

THE PATTERN YOU HAVE PROBABLY SEEN

1 Doses get missed
Or taken twice. Nobody notices for a while.

2 Small changes
Tired, confused, eating less, unsteady.

3 A fall or an ER visit
Often at night or on a weekend.

4 A hospital stay
Then rehab, and a family in crisis.

5 A move out
To assisted living or a nursing home, sooner than anyone wanted.

Where Virtual Caregiving steps in

- A caregiver watches the resident take their medication at the time it is due, every weekday
- Reminders on the TV for every other dose, confirmed with one press of the remote
- If a dose is refused, or something looks off, the family gets a phone call that day
- Our caregivers remind and watch. Medication questions always go to the resident's doctor or pharmacist

HOMETOGETHER TV, THE DEVICE BEHIND VIRTUAL CAREGIVING

Everything that helps a resident stay independent, on the TV they already have.

A small hub sits on top of the TV or on a table beside it. The resident only uses the television and one simple remote. Everything else runs quietly in the background or from the family's phone.

Video calls on the TV

A wide-angle HD camera, up to ten people on one call, Zoom group calls too. It can answer on its own, so the resident never has to press a thing.

Reminders that get done

Medications, appointments and exercise appear on screen at the right time. The resident confirms with one press of the remote, so the family and our team can see it was done.

Things to enjoy

Photos and videos from family play right on the TV, plus channels made for older adults: music, faith, memory lane programs, and live classes and events.

Quiet safety sensing

Motion, room temperature and humidity, light, and sound detection notice when a normal day stops looking normal. None of it uses the camera. Door, bed, chair and appliance sensors can be added.

Health readings, if wanted

Blood pressure, blood sugar, weight, temperature and pulse oximetry from compatible devices sync on their own. Ready when the doctor asks.

For the family, on their phone

An app for iPhone and Android, plus a web portal. Call any time, set reminders from another state, see how the week has gone, and choose who can call.

Privacy, built in

- A physical shutter closes over the camera lens, so anyone can see when it is off
- Only contacts the family approves can call the TV
- Every call is announced on screen. Never a hidden camera
- Each person gets their own level of access, on a HIPAA-compliant platform

Easy for an apartment building

- No Wi-Fi in the apartment? A built-in cellular connection can be added for $35 a month
- Near Springfield we install it. Anywhere else in Missouri we mail it, and a family member plugs it into the TV
- Updates happen on their own, and repairs go through us
- Questions come to our Springfield office, not a manufacturer's line in another time zone

HomeTogether TV comes first, our caregivers come through it

HomeTogether TV is $99 a month, or included with 20 or more private-pay hours a week of in-home care. Families can use it on its own, and every Virtual Caregiving visit runs on it, from $75 a week on top. Call (417) 234-8494.

What it is not: hands-on care or an emergency alert service. When a resident near Springfield needs help bathing, dressing or moving around, our in-home caregivers can come to their apartment.
